HEARING IN COURT ENDS IN SHOOTING

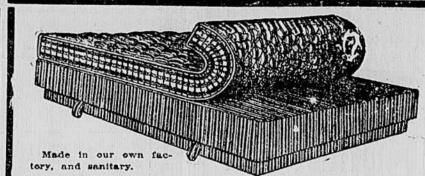

Plaintiff Wounds Son of Witness Who Testified Against Him.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
King and Queen Courthouse, Va.,
January 24.—A shooting affair occurred at Inc. in this county, yesterday, in which Cloton Gardner was very des-perately wounded by William M. Smith. Smith has a lawsuit with a neighbor over a boundary line, and Gardner's father was a witness against Smith. Smith is reported to have been very abusive toward the older Gardner in the presence of young Gardner. The father and son went to Smith's store to ask him about the matter, and Store to ask him about the matter, and smith is said to have continued his abuse, and ordered them out of his place. The Gardners are said to have started to leave, when Smith raised his pistol and fired at young Gardner, the ball entering his abdomen and perforating the intestines in a number of places. Smith has not been arrested but is reported to be still a rested, but is reported to be still at rofessor Raleigh C. Minor, of the law school of the University of Virginia, idressed the humanistic section of the Philosophical Society last night. He spoke on "Some Political Problems." in the course of his address Profes-Minor referred to many of the and governmental problems. Among other points he discussed the evils that would attend the adoption of the re-call as applied to judges. He stated that the recall of judges was quite different in nature and effect from the recall as applied to administrative offiials. In the latter case, the official ecalled would be in practically the ame position as if he had been elected for a short term and was up for re-election. But with the judges, he said, the matter was quite different, chiefly because the judges are not supposed to, and should not, represent the will or opinion of the people, but they should represent the sober judgment of the people. Therefore, to make the judges subject to the varying elements of public epinion would strike a blow at the very basic principle of the foundation upon which the judiciary rests. Dr. J. S. Grasty, of the department geology, left for Washington this He was one of the speakers to-night at the annual dinner of the Washington alumni chapter of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Among the other speakers were former Governor Folk, of Missouri; Representative Henand Senator Morris Sheppard, of Prisoner Escapes from Train.

MINOR DISCUSSES RECALL OF JUDGES

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Sallsbury, N. C., January 24.—Jumping from a rapidly-moving train, Frank Funderburg, a young white man under arrest for abandonment, made his escape from Chief of Police Mabry, of Concord, late Friday afternoon near Salisbury. He had been arrested by Captain B. F. Cauble, and the Concord officer came after his man, leaving with him handcuffed. At an unguarded moment he gave the officer the slip jumping out of a window.
